FOOTBALL TEAM TO BE PRESENT AT PEP MEETING

Music by Band, New Yells to Be Features of Tonight's Student Rally

PROSPECTIVE CHEER LEADERS TO TRY OUT

SuKy Circle Asks Sororities, Frats to Enforce Pledge Attendance

Members of the football team are scheduled to appear at the pep rally which will be held at 7:30 p. m. tonight in the Alumni gymnasium, preparatory to the Duke game which will be called at 2 p. m. Saturday on Stoll field. The program for the rally will include numbers by the University band, and the working out of yells which will be used Saturday, and tryouts for prospective cheer leaders.

The selection of five cheer leaders who will assist the present cheering team in the next two games will be made after try-outs have been held at the pep rally tonight. From the five who are selected and serve for the two games, two cheer leaders will be chosen to assist in leading yells at the Thanksgiving game and throughout the basketball season. These two leaders will become regular members of the cheering team.

Persons who desire to try-out for cheer leaders must report at 7:25 at the Alumni gymnasium. During the meeting they will be given an opportunity to lead the students in the regular University yells or in original cheers.

In an attempt to promote interest and to foster better cheering at the games, SuKy circle has asked the sororities and fraternities to cooperate by making attendance at the pep rallies compulsory for pledges. SuKy circle will send representatives to the various houses tonight to announce the pep meeting.

The committee which is in charge of arranging the rally is composed of the cheer leaders, Lucy Jean Anderson, Miles Davis, J. B. Croft, and John Haggard. The cheering team will appear in new outfits at the game Saturday presented by four downtown firms, Graves and Cox, Kaufman Clothing company, Angelucci and Ringo, and Shepherd.

New Deal Lectures Will Be Presented

The first of a series of lectures sponsored by the College of Commerce, Lexington board of commerce, and the International Relations class will be held at the University Training school auditorium at 7:30 p. m., November 6. A series of six lectures will be given to acquaint the community with the recovery legislation and its significance. Fred B. Wachs, president of the Lexington board of commerce is chairman of the lecture to be given November 6. Dr. Frank L. McVey, president of the University, will speak on "The New Deal Legislation and Its Administration."

SORORITIES COMPETE FOR CASH AWARDS

Each Monday night one sorority on the campus will be host at the Tatewood cafeteria on East Main street, and the sorority having the most business on their night as host will be given a cash prize of $25. This contest will continue for nine weeks until each sorority has had its turn.

Drawings will be held the preceding Friday in order to determine the host for the next Monday night. The Zeta Tau Alpha sorority was drawn for the first night. Chi Omega will be the host next Monday night.

All those who are interested in debating are urged to attend a meeting in McVey hall, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m. in room 231.

Students who have reported to Captain Harry D. Scheibla at the Military department as applicants for the varsity and the R. O. T. C. Rifle teams are requested to report at the Armory at 4 p. m. Wednesday, November 1, and at 1:30 p. m. Thursday, November 2.

Kentucky Has Never Won From Wade's Gridmen

By JAY LUCIAN

The greatest and most far-reaching feud in recent Kentucky history will again be displayed on Stoll field, Saturday afternoon, when Wallace Wade's Blue Devils will seek once more to exterminate the Kentucky Wildcats.

Rumor has it that the feud started some dozen years ago. Wade, then a famous Brown player, but an untired coach, came to Kentucky in search of a coach's job. The Athletic council was having an important session and they forgot Wade, who was waiting outside. He "waited impatiently," as the saying goes, and left with the parting threat that any team he coached would always beat Kentucky. So far he has made good his promise.

For nine years his Alabama teams defeated Kentucky. Then he went to Duke two years ago and has beaten Kentucky both times. However, he has found it increasingly difficult to warrant his boast, especially in the last two years when Kentucky has out-played and outgained his teams badly, only to lose through unfortunate breaks. To show what a respect Wade has for the Wildcats, he had them scouted in all of their last three games and he has his team keyed to a high pitch for the game.

Perhaps a surprise awaits him Saturday. An overconfident Kentucky team lost to Washington and Lee and their feelings have been aroused to the exploding point. A great bitterness hangs over the team and each individual member is burning with the desire to show what he really can do and the opportunity will come Saturday. For the past week the varsity has gone through a tremendous amount of fundamentals and scrimmaging. The ferocious tackling and hard running of the team is an example of how they feel.

The team stays close to the campus. "Big 240" Jobe voiced the feeling of each member of the team when he said, "We're going to smash into those fellows with everything we've got."

PLANS ARE MADE FOR DUTCH DANCE

Mortar Board Has Permission to Sponsor Affair in Recreation Room of Pat Hall

NOVEMBER 3, DATE SET

Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, has secured permission to sponsor a Dutch dance to be held in the recreation room of Patterson hall, November 3, from 4 to 6 p. m.

Previous to this year, the group has sponsored an annual tea dance. To create variety and to take the place of the leap year dance of last year, the plan of the Dutch dance was decided upon. Those familiar with this type dance know that it is customary for the women as well as the men to break and to capitalize upon the privilege of attending as a stag.

A nominal fee will be charged for entrance to the dance. Proceeds from the affair will go to the organization to aid in furthering the numerous activities of the group.

According to an announcement received from Mortar Board, a cup will be given at the end of the year to the outstanding girl freshman who has fulfilled the expectations of the honorary in activities on the campus, scholastic standing, etc.

Chaperones for the dance will be Dean Sarah Blanding, Mrs. Sarah K. Holmes, Miss Rebecca Averill, Dr. Esther Cole, Miss Mildred Lewis, Miss Doris Berkley, Mrs. Eda Giles, and Mrs. Tilton, matron at Patterson hall.

Alice Lang was appointed head of the Music committee, with Evelyn Grubbs and Jean Dawson as assistants. Virginia Lee Moore was appointed head of the publicity committee.

GREEKS MAY BE THEATER GUESTS

Phoenix Amusement Co. Now Working with Inter-Frat Head to Complete Arrangements

OTHERS MAY BE ASKED

In appreciation of the voluntary taken by the student body against theater rushing, the Phoenix Amusement company announced yesterday that it is working with Gordon Burns, Interfraternity council head, on a plan to entertain a sorority, fraternity, and an independent group once each week by having them as its guests to the regular weekly feature of one of the theaters under its management.

"Excellent cooperation has been given us by the University students so far this year, and we plan to show our appreciation of their voluntary support against theater rushing by asking some group each week to be our guests at that particular week's attraction," said the company officials.

The exact plan as to how the invitations will be issued has not been completed, but it is to be announced within the next two weeks. Tentative plans are that a sorority and fraternity will be invited on the same night, but it is not known whether authorities will approve of this. Plans for inviting the independent students will be released with those of fraternities and sororities.

For the past month, the entire University football squad has been the weekly guests of the amusement company on Monday night.

STATE WOMEN DEANS WILL HAVE MEETING

Dean Sarah Blanding, Mrs. Sarah K. Holmes, assistant dean of women and Mrs. Eda M. Giles, Boyd hall director, will leave Sunday morning to attend the Association of deans of women in Kentucky, which is being held in Louisville, October 29 and 30. They will return Monday evening.

Petitions For Class Officers Due Nov. 3

Election to Be Held in White Hall Nov. 10; Student Council in Charge

No petition will be considered if submitted after this time. Each petition must bear 25 signatures of persons in the same class as that of the candidate.

Election will be held in the customary room on the first floor in White hall. Voting will be conducted from 8 a. m. until 4:30 p. m., Friday, November 10. Election proceedings will be in full charge of the Men's Student council.

The next meeting of the Student council will be held Wednesday afternoon, at which time permanent officers of the organization will be elected.

DRAMATIC CIRCLE NAMES ADVISOR

Prof. Cass Robinson Elected Stroller Sponsor; Has Been Interested in Dramatics for Many Years

At a meeting of Strollers, student dramatic circle, Wednesday at 3:45 p. m., H. of Cass Robinson was elected faculty advisor.

Professor Robinson has been interested in dramatics much of his life, and has participated in many productions. At the University of Chicago he was a member of Friars, a student dramatic organization. Being active in local dramatics, Professor Robinson has played in the Guignol productions, "Journey's End," in which he took the part of Lieutenant Osborne, and "The Circle," in which he played the role of Lord Porteus.

According to Professor Robinson, Strollers should cooperate with the deans. "I believe," Doctor Robinson said, "that the chief difficulty of Strollers is that they are a political clique, rather than a dramatic organization. As far as their plays are concerned, I believe that they should give more of them, instead of centering their interest on one revue, such as they have been doing. Many students, he continued, "go into Strollers as an activity because they have been instructed to go out for activities by their fraternal organizations, rather than because they have any dramatic interest in Strollers as a whole."

Hallowe'en Opportunities Are Many

By HELEN ALFREY

Do you want a husband—or is it a wife?

Hallowe'en is the best day of all the year for discovering just what sort of better-half you are to be blessed or troubled with, the identity and sincerity of the true love, if any, and the outcome of various amorous adventures. Monday is Hallowe'en.

If you do not wish to test the faithfulness of your suppressed or expressed desire, read no farther! But if you have secret hopes and expectations, continue! This might be the means of determining your most important problems.

Perhaps you are lucky enough to be wooed by two lovers. If you are, here are two ways of finding out which is the more sincere. Place two apple seeds, which you have named for your lovers, on your eyelids. The seed that falls first is the suitor whose love is not adhesive. Of course, there is an advantage to this spell; the fates may easily be helped in their prophesy by winking. Or, if you prefer, name walnuts for your wooers and cast them into the fire. If a nut bursts, that lover is unfaithful; but if it burns with a steady glow until it is ashes, that lover's faith is true. Maybe you do not know the name of your true love yet. Here is how you can learn it. Pare an apple; hold the peeling by one end in your fingers, swing it around your head three times and let it fall. It will land in shape of your lover's initials. Of course they might be hard for anyone but you to read. If you are Scotch, Dame Custom says throw a ball of blue yarn out of a window, but hold to one end of the thread. Then when you are nearly half through rewinding the yarn, call loudly, "What hounds?" and the name of your future wife or husband will be answered to you. An Irishman has to repeat the Pater Noster backwards while rewinding the yarn in order to get the correct answer.

There are many ways of actually seeing an apparition of your mate-to-be. Wet the left sleeve of a garment, hang it before the fire to dry, and then go to bed and watch. About midnight the lover will come and turn the drying article. If you don't see the image, you can say that you must have dropped off to sleep and missed it. This works for anyone.

Now, here's one for the "Ag" students. Take a handful of hemp seed, go out alone at midnight and sow it. While doing so, keep saying, "Hemp seed, I sow thee, hemp seed, I sow thee; let him or her that is to be my future love come after me and pull thee." Then look over your left shoulder, and you are supposed to behold the likeness of the future sweetheart. If you see no image, you can conclude that you will never marry or that there is a mistake in the experiment.

This next one is for the ladies only. Sweet maiden, before you go to bed, place a silver of wood in a glass of water beside your bed. In the night you will dream of falling from a bridge into a river, but no sooner than you hit the water, you will be rescued by your future husband, whose face you will be able to see quite plainly. Try it; wouldn't it be thrilling?

These are only a few of the many ways of vaticinating your future love affairs, but you should be either well satisfied or sorely disappointed by the time you have tried the ones disclosed here. Good luck to you next Monday night! I hope they work, but if they don't you can try them again the next Hallowe'en.

Musicales Are To Be Resumed November 5th

Professional Artists, Glee Club, Philharmonic Orchestra Dated

Sunday afternoon musicales will be resumed November 5 in Memorial hall, according to Prof. R. D. McIntyre, chairman of the committee in charge of the concerts. Professor McIntyre said that the present series will be, artistically, the finest since the musicales began, several years ago.

Outstanding professional artists, University philharmonic orchestra, University glee clubs, and prominent local musicians will assist in presenting the programs. The series calls for 19 concerts during the months of November, December, January, February and March. The closing concert will be presented Palm Sunday when the glee club and orchestra will present Mendelssohn's oratorio, "The Elijah."

The University philharmonic orchestra, with Prof. Carl Lampert conducting, and with Miss Josephine Parker, soprano, will open the series November 5. Professor Lampert has the finest orchestra in this season, and music lovers look forward to hearing it at the opening concert.

Funds for the musicales are provided for through the music committee of the University which is given a certain amount from student fees. President McVey conceived the idea of having Sunday afternoon musicales for cultural influence when Memorial auditorium had just been completed. Ever since then the musicales have been presented each year. Since the first concert was given, the audience has grown from 200 to 800.

Prominent artists who have appeared on Sunday afternoon musical programs are: Harry Farman, Frank Kneisel, and Samuel Thavien, violinists; the Heerman trio, and the Tallerson trio; Miss Dwight Anderson, Daniel Ericourt, Harry Meyers, pianists; Mary Anne Kaufmann Brown, Lucia Shagoun, Marie Haskon, sopranos, and Laura Doone Jackson, contralto.

CATS, WADEN CLASH AT 2 P. M. ON STOLL FIELD

Big Blue, with Changed Line-up, Will Try to Break Wade Jinx

KREUTER, DAVIDSON PUT ON SECOND TEAM

Ferocious Blocking Marks Week's Practice Against Freshmen

By HENRY McCOWN

After what is said to have been the most strenuous week of practice "dished out" to a Wildcat football squad in recent years, Coach Harry Gamage's Big Blue team, with a greatly changed lineup, will endeavor to break the twelve-year Wadean jinx and wreck the title aspirations of the mighty Duke Blue Devils when they meet in their annual grid battle, called at 2 p. m., Saturday on Stoll field.

Apparently thoroughly disgusted with the poor showing that their charges made against the supposed-

Meeting at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon in the offices of Athletic Director S. A. "Daddy" Boles, the athletic council rescinded its former action declaring Fillmore Gilmer, varsity football backfield star, eligible for athletic competition. The action of the council at yesterday's meeting prohibits Gilmer from playing football at the University.

At the session, contracts were closed and signed for the following games for 1934: October 6, Georgia Tech. at Atlanta; November 3, Alabama at Lexington; November 17, Tulane at Lexington; and November 29, Tennessee at Knoxville.

ly inferior Washington and Lee outfit, the coaching staff started off the week with perhaps the toughest Monday practice session in the history of the Wildcats. For the first time since the season started, the Wildcats blocked with some ferociousness. Besides the heavy assignment of blocking and tackling practice, Coach B. L. Pribble's powerful freshmen team, armed with Duke plays, has been run against the Big Blue every day this week.

Due to the poor showing of some of the Wildcats in the W. and L. game, several changes have been made in the starting lineup. Captain "Dutch" Kreuter, and last year's captain, Bud Davidson, have been shifted to the second team, and "Oyster" Prye, a fighting flankman, and Bill Jobe, 235-pound sophomore tackle, have replaced them on the first string. Darnaby, who has been trying out for the center position, has been shifted back to a guard berth and will probably start against the Wademen. Bill Jacobs, who has seen quite a bit of action this season probably will start at a guard position.

Unimpressed by the blocking displayed by his blocking back, Coach Gamage has been using Miller, who recently recovered from a back injury, in the place of Jack Jean, the Wildcat's ace blocking back who injured his shoulder again in the W. and L. game and has been unable to take part in any of the rough stuff this week.

The Wademen have been hard at work all week in preparation for their battle with the 'Cats and are taking every precaution to see that their record of three straight wins and Wallace Wade's twelve can be (Continued from Page One)

A FRIEND PASSES

In the passing of "Jack" Dicker, many students and alumni of the University have lost a true friend. It has been estimated that more than 5,000 students came in contact with the genial and intelligent engineering professor during his long term of service to the institution.

A man who sought to help students in their personal as well as their scholastic problems, John B. Dicker established himself in the hearts of all persons who were fortunate enough to know him.

A recognized authority in the pattern, woodworking, blacksmithing, foundry, and machine shop divisions of the College of Engineering, he sought to instill in the minds of his students the principles of the vocation to which he devoted his life's study. In addition to his own students, he was vitally interested in student problems and was never known to betray a confidence placed in him by any person who sought his counsel.

"Jack" Dicker devoted his life to others—an unselfish principle—the fact of which is a fitting tribute to a man who will be missed by all students.

BARNUM WAS RIGHT

An editor of sports on a local newspaper makes the bold statement that it is the fault of the students that the University does not have a fighting team. Before going further, we want it known that the students do not think that the Wildcats are a listless ball club. We also want it known that the student body is back of the team in defeat as well as victory. So much for that.

This so-called newspaper man remarks in his brilliant and subtle manner, "It is so unpleasant to play football at the University of Kentucky when a game is lost, it will never cease to be a wonder to us why all the boys don't quit." We venture to say that many things are a wonder to this outstanding sports writer, who attempts, as did Atlas, to carry the burden of the world upon his shoulders.

The average intelligent person declares, "There may be other schools in the country that have fans who do nothing but knock, but we don't believe it." Who cares, we ask you, Mr. sports editor, what you believe? Furthermore, does it make a great amount of difference what the fans think of the Wildcat performances? Has the student body arisen, en masse, to declare themselves mortified and chagrined at the defeat of the 'Cats by the powerful Washington and Lee team? No! It is true that possibly several students have talked "through their hats" about the defeat but that surely doesn't mean that the entire student body should be publicly chastised for the mistakes of a few.

The student body is willing to forget the Washington and Lee game and do their part to help the Wildcats overcome more powerful and important foes. With a little cooperation on the part of everyone concerned, many embarrassing and regrettable situations could be avoided. The University students are not prone to seek trouble or to justly criticize any person or persons. As a whole, they are an intelligent and fair-minded group.

Can the sports writers, the same men who dubbed the Wildcats the "Hitless Wonders," sincerely criticize the student body for something of which that group is entirely innocent? The majority of students realize that the team is playing a type of football which would not result in high-scoring, one-sided victories but they DID NOT nickname them the "Hitless Wonders," because of this fact. Does not the fault revert to the persons seeking to "correct" it?

We repeat, for the benefit of some ill-informed persons, that the student body is not seeking trouble and they, as a whole, are backing the team in its sincere efforts to play the type of football that will reflect the greatest amount of good-will upon the University of Kentucky, an institution known for its sportsmanship upon the football field and elsewhere.

The Kernel, the official publication of the student body of the University of Kentucky, is desirous of defending the students against these unjust attacks. We bear no malice toward any person or group of persons but merely wish to be known for doing the things that will not reflect any criticism upon our University. We have been accused of doing something that would not bear out our traditions as we would like to have them borne out. For this, and only this, reason, was this editorial written.

ANOTHER FIRESIDE

Last Sunday night, October 22, the President of the United States and the people engaged in another of those delightful fireside chats which have characterized the Roosevelt administration. This manner of discussing common problems is quite new, but its success has been tremendous.

In all of these talks the President has discussed some basic problem which was confronting us at that time. His latest address considered several problems, but seemed to be more of a plea for the people to understand that nothing can be done overnight. If we will stop and think what has taken place since March 4, we all will have to agree that this nation has gone a long way towards recovery—four million men re-employed, home owners and farm holders can now feel sure they will be able to keep their homes. Then too, 300,000 young men have had their ideals and hopes restored through the reforestation camps. All of these steps are definite acts which have lessened the depression. The job of conquering this depression is a long time job and cannot be accomplished in a day. To date, we have recovered exactly 25 per cent, which means at the present rate, we will be in normal times again in less than two years. It is far better to build slowly and securely than to build fast, and have the structure collapse.

The President, since the beginning of his term, has made two things clear. First—he promised no miracles, and second—that he would do his best. Miracles are not worked by humans and it is unfair to expect the President to do a superhuman act. That President Roosevelt has done his best, there can be absolutely no question.

He said in his talk that the nation was definitely on its way to recovery and that if one method did not succeed, others would be used which would succeed. In his own words—"If we cannot do this one way, we will do it another, but do it we will." This is the spirit of the President and with such a spirit nothing but success lies ahead. Yes, Mr. President, we are on our way, on our way towards social justice for all the sons and daughters of men.

CONSIDER THE SPECTATOR

The complaint that students selling for SuKy at football games often make nuisances of themselves by obstructing the view of spectators has arisen again, as it has many times during the past football seasons. Both visitors and Kentucky fans have been heard to express their irritation in bitter words. At every game, intermittent cries of "down in front" are directed to offending SuKy salesmen.

Instead of confining most of the promenading necessary to sell their wares to the period between halves, they wander up and down the aisles, even during the most exciting moments of play on the field, distracting the attention of the crowd and lessening the enjoyment of the game.

Attempts to require that students sell only when the game is not in progress have been made. However, when this was tried last year, the reaction of those selling was decidedly unfavorable. If they feel that they cannot sacrifice a few random sales for the peace of mind of the spectators, at least they can be more considerate and refrain from too much passing through the aisles. When making a sale they should be careful to avoid standing directly in front of people. While watching the game or resting, they should sit down. Such indications of consideration for others will earn them the gratitude of the crowd.

The small boys who gather at the top of the stadium and amuse themselves by pelting people with paper wads also call forth justifiable ire. They pay only a few cents for admission to the game. While we do not want to deprive them of the opportunity to see the game, the rights of those who pay at the regular rates must be considered first. These boys should be warned that repetition of their playful antics will result in their being barred from the stadium. If the disturbance continues after such fair warning, the threat should be carried out. To say the least the location of policemen in the top row should be sufficient to handle those who persist in the throwing of missiles.

PETITE PIECE

By LORRAINE LEPERE

Thoughts while crossing the campus:

Sunday was a typical European autumn day. Steady misty rain, oceans of wet leaves and bent twigs on the pavements. Lamps burning early in the afternoon. Woodsy smells from all the chimneys inevitably suggesting a leaping hearth lighting its room. And drowsiness is so pleasant—but Monday morning says we are in America, and tastes again of the crisp fall air and the indirect rays of the sun as it moves farther away.

Wish I knew who was or is responsible for the Botanical garden; for it is surely a credit to the campus, and I should like to tell that person so. My first visit taught me a little of some things I never knew existed, and I have ideas now that seem so strange. Must be good to learn about abstractions.

Nearing the basketball building makes my nose wrinkle as I think of the awful picture I took.

Think I'll run into the Women's building for a cup of tea. It is a lovely custom the girls have preserved over there, and I do hope nothing happens to do away with this hospitality.

And what's all this about a Student Union building? Seems like a rumbling in the distance, but I hope it really happens. We wouldn't have to cast longing looks into the faculty room any more for one thing. Would they build it where that big open space is in front of the Physics building, I wonder, or has the site already been chosen?

There ought to be a law against profs who dare to pop a quiz on Monday morning. Monday afternoon wouldn't be so bad, for by that time we are sort of adjusted to the idea of being in this great scholarly atmosphere, but Monday morning. What mean quirks there are in humanity!

I am stopping now to say a few words with a girl who has a jade ring on. I wonder where she got it, but I don't know her well enough to ask. Jade is one of my pets. Did you know that all the jade unearthed nowadays is old stuff, that no new jade has been found in centuries, and that scientists are sort of stuck on this problem? Must be the old saying that you can't move into the Orient, at least if you're of the Western civilization. And here's another thing I learned recently, that seems never to have escaped the tight lips of the Chinese. Everybody in China has a round dining table. Even the poorest of the poor. The reason, so they tell me, is so that there will be always room for another. Never thought much about that, but you can't put as many people around a square table, at that.

So now I'll have my tea.

SEEN FROM THE PRESSBOX

By J. DELMAR ADAMS

Regardless of the miserable showing of the Big Blue at Roanoke Saturday, the Duke Blue Devils will not slaughter them as the majority of the fans are expecting. We predicted early in the season that some of the so-called setup foes of the 'Cats would emerge with a victory, and it happened because of overconfidence, which has defeated more good teams than any other factor.

But a new spirit has pervaded the Big Blue camp which indicates that the Cats are aroused to a pitch they have not reached in several years. That defeat has brought the boys to their senses, and they will use every trick in their possession to gain a victory. Wallace Wade has jinxed the Wildcats for 12 years and it seems as if the law of averages is about due to step in and give him a lacing, if the Cats are not able to do it by themselves.

Colonel Neville Dunn, author of Snapshots, a column which appears in a local paper, recently observed, "The reason the Wildcats have no better spirit and win no more games is the attitude of the student body." Mr. Dunn further remarked that the school and the student body is not back of the team. Just how this self-established censor arrived at his stupendous conclusion is hard to say. But however, his opinion is extremely erroneous. Never have the students booed their team and although at times the cheering may be a trifle faint, the school is behind the Cats even in the darkest hours of defeat.

Having been a staunch believer in the Wildcats until this year, Neville has turned completely around and is now the most skeptic of pessimists. Having taken this attitude it is possible that he has turned his ire on the students, who are blameless in this matter absolutely. While there may be scattered opposition to the team when it fails to win, the vast majority of the rank and file of the University are solidly back of the Big Blue, win, lose, or drud be impossible to have a team. To take such an attitude as Mr. Dunn would have you believe they have taken is stupendous and unbelievable for they would be working against themselves by taking such a stand.

Wade's Duke offense is built around Corkey Cornelius, a 175-pound halfback, who kicks, runs, and passes with almost uncanny ability. It is said by those who have been so fortunate as to have witnessed the Blue Devils in action. But he is not the only competent ball-carrier in the visitors starting array. Nick Laney and Cox are no mean ball carriers and Cox has the distinction of leading the Southern conference scorers for this season. It was Laney who spelled doom for the Cats last year by his return of punts and general all-around play. And Cox is one of the niftiest line plungers in the southland.

Several new faces will be seen in the opening lineup for the Wildcats, Saturday. Jimmy Miller, who played at blocking back during most of last season, will be in Jean's place as the "Ripper's" shoulder is still sore. Jimmy has been out most of the season with a back injury which he carried over from last year. But he is in tiptop shape now and is raring to go. Captain "Dutch" Kreuter's rather unimpressive showing in the last few games has opened the way for John Fry, one of the lightest men on the squad, and Fry may begin the battle at right end. Several other shifts are very likely before game time Saturday.

Cats Meet Wademen Tomorrow at 2 p. m.

lengthened to four and thirteen respectively. Dunlap, varsity center, Quarterback Hendrickson, and Corky Cornelius, the "eight-yard a trip" halfback, who were injured in their victory over Tennessee are back in shape and it is probable that Duke will be able to throw her full strength against the Wildcats.

While Kentucky has shown little improvement in their practice sessions this week they seem to have taken on a new spirit and they are at least trying. If it is possible for the coaches to make them realize that it is absolutely essential that they block when they take the field against the Dukemen, the Wildcats may break the jinx that Wade has had over them for so many years.

Intramural

By J. B. WELLS

The annual intramural cross-country race will be run today at 4 o'clock. The course has been staked out and the teams which are now entered have run the course five times in practice.

The course starts at the west gate of Stoll field and extends along Boneyard creek over to South Limestone street. It continues along South Limestone street and circles the Agriculture building and back along the South Limestone street, and runs back with the west gate as a finish.

The number of teams entered now is four which is exceedingly small in comparison with the ones which were entered when the race was first announced. Some were cut out by the physical examination, and some by the requirement of the five practice runs. The teams entered now are the Delta Tau Delta, Sigma Chi, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternities.

The race is expected to be an exceptional one in that there will be only 20 entrants, and that the teams have trained very hard, and that they are in good physical condition.

The Delta Tau Delta team consists of Heilbranner, Calvin, Miller, Van Arsdale, and Travis. The Sigma Chi team consists of Bringardner, Butler, Chester, J. Phillips, and B. Phillips. The Alpha Gamma Rho chapter team consists of Fescoe, Hanna, Nicholson, Pedcock, and Ford. Campbell, Holbrook, Irvine, Shanklin, Taylor, and Eckles make up the Sigma Alpha Epsilon team.

Freshman Military Classes Dismissed

Freshman classes in military science will not be held today and tomorrow, Major Boitos E. Brewer announced yesterday. Major Brewer will be assisted by instructors in the basic course in handling 409 applicants for the Citizens' Conservation corps, who will arrive in Lexington today from 25 eastern Kentucky counties, and will stay at local hotels tonight. A special train, leaving from the Union station at 9:30 a. m. Saturday, will take them to Fort Knox.

Friday and Saturday of next week 276 more applicants will arrive here from 14 central Kentucky counties, including 78 men from Fayette county. Classes in the basic course probably will not be held next Friday and Saturday, according to Major Brewer.

The University of Chicago has the largest football stadium in the country.
